

Imaging Services Accreditation Scheme

Are you a Radiographer or Sonographer? Would you be interested in becoming an ISAS Technical/Peer Assessor?

ISAS is a new patient focussed imaging services accreditation scheme that is independently assessed against a quality enhancing standard that is based on clinical and patient reported performance measures. ISAS gives confidence to patients, purchasers, staff, and managers about safety, effectiveness and sustainability of the service.

The United Kingdom Accreditation Service (UKAS), appointed by The Royal College of Radiologists and The Society and College of Radiographers to manage and deliver the new imaging services accreditation scheme, is looking to recruit and train Assessors.

You should have at least four years practical experience, preferably at a senior level, in a Radiology/Diagnostic Imaging department. The voluntary role will involve two assessments per year (maximum 12 days, 4 of the days on site visiting, remaining days to review evidence at your own convenience within agreed timescales), will contribute towards CPD, and will provide valuable training and insight should your department seek accreditation in the future. Some travel in the UK, and overnight stays will be required, but will be kept as local as possible

If you would like to discuss the role further, please contact Ethna Glean on ethna.glean@ukas.com
